The exoneration list of Tax Collector Woodward was submitted for the approval of council for the year 1914.

The real estate committee reported the borough building repaired for the reception of the new Seagrave truck which is expected to arrive today. The wages of the two drivers were fixed at $80.00 per month. The drivers employed are Edward Byerly and W. D. Laird.

The real estate committee was given instructions to arrange for the taking over of the fireman's lot next to the borough building and to report at the next meeting.

The East Side Land company presented a proposition for the taking over of the parks which will appear in a later issue as submitted.

Six bids were submitted for the purchase of a police patrol, the price ranging from $1,000 to $2,900. The matter was resferred to the police committee.

Sue For Divorce

In the domestic troubles of Oliver B. Michener of North Charleroi, and his wife, Marietta Michener, two libels in divorce are now before the court. Some time since the husband, Oliver B. Michener, filed a libel. In that he charged his wife with infidelity and named Clifford B. Blackburn and George Fullmer as correspondents. In an answer filed yesterday Mrs. Michener denies the accusations made by her husband. She also files a petition asking for alimony and counsel fees pending the divorce action. She sets forth that she is without support, that her husband makes $90 a month as a motorman. She asks for $100 counsel fees and $5 a week for support. A rule has been issued on the husband to show cause why the prayer of his wife should not be granted. The wife also yesterday filed a divorce action against her husband. In it she charges him with cruel and barbarous treatment. She says he was of a quarrelsome disposition and frequently abused her and beat her. Also that he abused the children

Broke Jail

Lawson Roberts and Harry Dairy, two colored men arrested in Monongahela, charged with the theft of a quantity of wire from a mine near Fayette City, were placed in the Fayette City lockup last evening but sometime during the night picked the lock on their cells and disappeared. Their absence was not discovered until in the morning and no trace of their whereabouts can be secured

Roberts was arrested early yesterday morning by County Detective William McCleary at Monongahela. He was detected by the Monongahela postmoster with a horse and wagon filled with copper wire along the country road. The postmaster brought him to Monongahela and turned him over to the county detective.

Harry Dairy was arrested about 6 o'clock as being implicated in the theft of the wire and Constable Eckman of Fayette City, notified. He went to Monongahela last evening and took the men to Fayette City to await a hearing on a charge of robbery. Over 1100 pounds of copper and brass were in the wagon.

Many Dry Judges

—George W. Baldwin, an attorney supported by the Beaver county temperance federation, won in Tuesday's election over Judge Holt, the wet candidate. Judge Criswell, the dry candidate in Venango county was re-elected. In Mercer county James A. McLaughrey, the dry candidate, won by a good lead. In Jefferson county, Charles Corbett, the nolicense Judge won with a large majority and Bedford county, according to the election, will remain dry.

Suffrage Gaining

One of the biggest surprises of the election was the strong vote cast in favor of the proposed suffrage amendment to the constitution. Political leaders following the returns last month of the vote on this question in New Jersey, when the amendment lost by over 60,000, predicted that this state would defeat the cause by a vote ranging from 100,000 to 200,000. The early returns from Philadelphia supported their claims and the report was sent out that the amendment had lost by approximately 150,000.

The returns from the remaining counties, however, have cut down this lead to a great extent and from present indications the majority against the amendment will not exceed 50,000. A feature of the returns is the changing of Allegheny county from the anti-suffrage to the suffrage column. Pittsburgh defeated the cause by over 4,000 votes, but the remainder of the county gave good majorities in favor of the amendment and will give a lead of 2,500 for equal franchise.

Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage association, last night claimed 25 counties had gone for woman suffrage and that only 12 had been lost as a matter of certainty. Late returns she claimed, were adding to the suffrage column. Practically all the counties of Western Pennsylvania polled up solid majorities for the cause . Philadelphia and Lancaster counties dealt the heaviest blows to suffrage.

Westmoreland and all surrounding counties gave nice majorities in favor of the amendment Monessen by a small lead voted in favor of equal franchise and last evening the suffragists celebrated their victory with a parade. They were jubilant over their victory in this city and the western end of the county and with huge banners they expressed their thanks for the support given their cause and placed themselves on record as being boosters for Monessen.

—Tomorrow is the big day of the week at the Olympic theatre with the Metro program featuring Edward Connelly in "Marse Covington," a five reel Southern drama. 1t

All Republicans Gain From Early Election Returns

The complete returns of Westmoreland county make no change in the final results. All of the Republicans with the exception of Shields won by big majorities. Judge A. D. McConnell wins by from 1200 to 1500 votes over Geo. B. Shaw. Dick Reamer is elected over Herman Hamel by 1100 votes. The other two winners are Berkey Boyd and George Deeds. Dr. A. D. Miller of Manor, is the next county Treasurer, leading Rosenberry by 1500 votes.

Edward Cremer for Register of Wills, leads his opponent by 8,000. He polled the highest vote on the ticket. It is believed John S. Sell will have a lead of 3,500 over his opponent, James E. Bell. All the other Republicans have safe majorities.

Star Feature

At the Star theatre Friday will be seen Betty Bellairs in "The Spanish Jade," Following is a synopsis of the play: Manuella, daughter of a water seller in a provincial Spanish town, is sold as a dancing girl by her father to a strolling musician. In the course of her wanderings she meets a young man calling himself Esteban Vincas, in realty Don Bartoleme Ramonez de Alavia, only son of a Spanish Hidalgo, Don Luis, who lives in poverty in his home in Vallodolid.

To escape the grind of poverty Bartoleme ran away and became a thief and vagabond. Meeting Manuella he falls in love with her and runs away with her after stabbing the musician.

Meantime in London, Mr. Osmund Manvers has experienced an unhappy love affair and to seek forgetfullness,, plans a horseback ride through Spain. In the concluding chapters of the picture the parties undergo exciting experiences that thrill and make the drama the great success it has been pronounced by critics. At the Star theatre tomorrow.

Suffragists Pleased

—Mrs. J. C. F. Motz, local suffrage leader, is greatly pleased over the results of Tuesday's election. Mrs. Motz has worked hard for the equal franchise cause, devoting much of her time and effort to shaping the campaign. She is greatly pleased with the results in Monessen and Westmoreland county. Those who worked with Mrs, Motz as well as all others who approved of the amendment, are also gratified.

—See the big Broadway Universal feature at the Olympic today, a picture that will meet with the approval of all classes. 1t

Foot Ball Saturday

Although hundreds of football fans from this city will travel to Pittsburgh Saturday to witness the Pitt W. & J. football game, those who stay at home, will be given a rare treat as the Scholastics have booked the fast Connellsville team for a game at the Page park. The Scholastics are considered the fastest team in their class and will try conclusions with the fast Coketown team, even though they are considered out of their class. The game will be called at 3:30.

Farmer Shot

R B. Washabaugh, a farmer living in North Strabane township, Washington county, was shot by an unidentified man, said to be a foreigner. Later a posse headed by Frank White of Canonsburg, was organized, but the alleged assailant had not been captured this morning.

Washabaugh had ordered the foreigner off his premises, where he was hunting with a shotgun. The trespasser pointed a revolver at the farmer but did not shoot. When he reached a nearby road, however, he raised his shotgun and fired, shots striking Washabaugh in the face, neck and about the hands. Some of the shots inflicted serious wounds about Washabaugh's eyes.

Some Queer Laws

We've some queer laws in this country. An employe of any industrial plant can, after the first of the year, accidentally or intentionally hurt himself and the employer is liable. However, we have a decision from one of the United States Judges bearing on a case in which it is decided that a hospital is not liable for the mistakes of its nurses. That is quite comforting to the doctors and heads of such institutions, but is rather disquieting to the average man or woman.

The judge has no doubt founded his decision on the law, but a new one would not be a miss. Hospitals permit girls to do three or four years' drudgery for their room and board, and not great board at that, for the directors' permission to follow nursing. The state in the meantime donates huge sums toward the maintenance of the hospitals that treat their apprentices as no private employer would be permitted to do. Then if a mistake occurs, the girl, who is probably dead on her feet, is responsible.

It is not justice, of course, but it is precedent. When a train is wrecked, some dead trainman, not the officials, is found responsible, When an Eastland sinks, some underling, not an important personage, is the murderer. When a railroad is plundered a high priced attorney declares in strident tones, "these men are prominent in education and philanthropy. Let them go." It is little wonder that an institution such as a state-fed hospital can shift its sacred responsibilities to an unpaid and sometimes under-fed girl. But it is the law,

The Future Indications

With the election of Tuesday over and the county officers chosen for a period of four years, we will now turn our attention to the approaching campaign of next spring when we are to choose representatives to the legislature, congress and senate.

Indications point to a return to power of the principles of the Republican party in the national election of next year. Tuesday's election returns show that the Republican party won in nearly every state and county by handsome majorities. Westmoreland comes back into line with a big Republican vote. there being but one defeat on the entire ticket and that was done through the influence of Republican leaders to settle an old factional contention.

Monessen did herself proud in loyally supporting the nominees of the Republican party. No doubt but what the ten precincts in this end of the county saved the day for several of the nominees. Monessen did not turn down a man. The town did not participate in any schemes to defeat any part of the ticket despite the stories that were circulated, and had every community treated the nominees as honorable as Monessen,the entire ticket would have won.

Transcontinental Terminals

AMONG the many wonderful things worth seeing at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which President Hadley of Yale has described as "the most beautiful and inspiring exposition the world has ever seen," the Transcontinental demonstration of the Bell System has won distinction and has been awarded the Grand Prize of Electrical Methods of Communication.

For the first time, perhaps, thousands who have visited the Bell Telephone Exhibit have realized what the wonderful long distance development of the Bell System means to them personally: how it links them to their home interests no matter where they are, and increases the range of their social and business activities.

One of the practical results of this striking demonstration of long distance development will be a larger use of the Bell long distance and toll lines which unite 9,000,000 telephones covering the whole country.

Two Lives Amalgamated

The following account of the wedding of Frank Foster of this city and Miss Grace Coleman of Lima, O., was handed into this office by a friend of the young couple:

In obedience to the universal mandate and inanimate instinct which,with irrestible alluring magnetism, is ever drawing into juxtaposition the beauteous and chivalrous, the brave and the gay, softly and sweetly as the song of sirens, but nevertheless unerringly and eternally as the mariners' compass is ever seeking the pole, until in the process of time two existences, two lives, two individualities, which have hitherto flowed on, each in its independent course through the vicissitudes of this mundane sphere, even as two mountain rivulets have rippled on separately and thoughtlessiy over their pebbly heds through sunshine and shadow until at last, escaping from their mountain fastnesses, they emerge upon the surrounding plain to blend together into a single purting brook, destined forevermore to travel as a single ribbon of chrystalline clearness toward the great ocean of futurity, Frank F. Foster of this city and Miss Grace M. Coleman, formerly of this city, on Thursday last at Lima, O.. amalgamated their earthly existences into one harmonious entirety and there upon the hymenial altar said the fateful words which bind the twain as one. They have taken up their residence on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Foster at Mingo, on the Charleroi line. Their many friends in this vicinity will join us in extending to them the felicities of a long and continued marital existence.

A Resident Known to all our Readers Relates an Experience

Readers of the Independent have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons, living far away. The cases are Monessen cases, told by Monessen people.

Mrs. R. Gilmour, 102½ First street, Monessen, says: "I sufferod for years from a lame back and often when I stooped, the misery was so intense that I cried aloud. If I moved suddenly, it seemed as if something snapped in my back. When I exerted myself in sweeping or doing housework, the pain was unbearable. I felt tired and listless all the time and my head ached. My eyes were affected and I was all worn out. I consulted several doctors but none of them seemed to do me any good, and finally I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. A few boxes made me quite well. Others of the family used Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney tonic and think highly of them."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

DONALD MACKENZIE

THE LUCKY COIN THAT PROVED A POOR TALISMAN—DONALD MACKENZIE'S STRANGE ADVENTURE.

Donald Mackenzie, the well known Pathe producer, several months ago happened to be sitting at the same table in a Broadway restaurant with a distinguished looking stranger who looked like a Spaniard. Conversation started between the two, and an impromptu friendship was struck up. The stranger had some interesting experiences to relate—he had been for twenty years in South America, had accumulated a fortune, and was now on his way home to Spain after a trip through the United States. He was lonely, very lonely, and Mr. Mackenzie was the first congenial acquaintance he had met since he left Peru. He regretted that on the morrow he would have to sail for home, for he had enjoyed the acquaintance of the senor much. But wait, he would like to leave the senor a slight token of his regard, a coin, a very old coin, which he had dug from the prehistoric ruins of Peru. He had found two of them years ago wher he was destitute and discouraged, and they had given him much luck. From that day he has prospered. The senor with that coin must prosper, too

When the stranger left after a warm handshake, Mr. Mackenzie found in his hand the coin. It was weird enough in looks to be an extraordinary luck bringer, so "Mac" slipped it into his pocket and forgot about it.

A week later he had a letter from an old friend of his in Scotland, saying that he had enlisted to fight for England in the great war and was leaving for the front probably within two or three weeks. "Mac" thought of his lucky coin, and decided his friend needed it to ward off hostile bullets. He sat down at once and wrote him, enclosing the coin, telling his friend that it was "big medicine" and would bring him glory, medals and promotions galore Thus endeth the first chapter in the tale of the lucky coin.

Last week "Mac" heard from his friend again for the first time since he sent the coin. It was from an army hospital somewhere in France, and ran in part as follows:

"You may have your 'big medicine' coin and welcome. You'll find it enclosed herewith. Here's what it's done for me. We left for the front the next day after I got it and I was sick as a dog all the way over the channel, being the only man on board who was, for it was a remarkably smooth passage. Landing on the dock a rifle accidentally fell on my foot and smashed it. We were at once ordered to the front, and my regiment was stationed in that part of the trenches where the fighting was the hottest, and it's my private belief that I was at the hottest point. I was wounded in the arm almost at once, slightly it's true, but painfully. I stuck it out and about two hours later had a bullet part my hair very neatly, but the hair will never grow again where the bullet cut. Not long after that something hit me a wallop, and I woke up in this hospital bandaged from head to foot—one wound in the head, one in each arm, one in the stomach, and one in my right leg. That wasn't the end of it. I've just heard that my fiancee back in Scotland has married another man. Take back your 'big medicine'—I spurn it."

Somehow, or other, the ocean liner carrying the "lucky" coin back to America escaped being torpedoed, but the captain never knew what an ill-omened token was aboard.

Mr. Mackenzie got this letter while he was directing a scene in Richard Carle's play "Mary's Lamb." He told everybody to wait for a few minutes and then dashed for the door. He isn't the least bit superstitious, but two minutes later he might be seen making a bee line for the Palisades on the edge of which are located the Pathe studios. Pausing on the rim of the dizzy cliff he flung the coin as far from him as he could. As near as he could judge it fell on the West Shore Railroad tracks, two hundred feet below. Now he's afraid the accursed thing will cause a bad train wreck "for," as he says, "you never can tell!"

Express

The express companies handle more than three hundred million express packages in the United States annually, and during one recent year $4,000,000,000 was dispatched to practically all corners of the earth by express and not one cent went astray. More than $1,500,000,000 of this amount was handled for the United States government.

The value of property owned by the express companies is $27,154,000 and represents the assessed value of land and buildings, horses, wagons, trucks, safes, chests, office furniture and other property. In this valuation are included 17,000 wagons, autos and sleighs and 20,000 head of horses and mules The number of horses and mules used in this industry exceeds the total number of work animals in the United States cavalry or in the entire state of Delaware.

Eleven important express companies operate in the United States. These express companies, according to recent figures compiled by the interstate commerce commission, operate over 301,064 miles of line. Ninety-two per cent of this mileage is over steam roads, 5 per cent over steamboat lines and the remaining mileage is operated over electric lines and stage-coach routes

The operating expenses of the express companies in America in 1913 aggregated $79,216,000. This does not include the amount paid to carriers for express privileges. Today this industry carries on its pay roll 80,000 people, who receive an aggregate of $10,000,000 in salaries and wages annually Seventy per cent of the express companies' revenue, after deducting the amount paid the railways for express privileges, goes to meet the pay roll of this industry.

The income account of the companies in 1913 was around $168,880,000, which included earnings from transportation, money orders, C. O. D. checks and other sources, but approximately $83,872,000 of this amount was paid to the railroads, steamship lines, etc., for express privileges. The express companies pay one-half of their total income to the railroads for express privileges

Revenue derived from the government by the railways for handling mail during the past ten years has increased 20 per cent, while that paid by the express companies has increased 105 per cent during this period.

The C. O. D. service, a simple and effective method of selling merchandise without risk to the owner and shipper, has been and is an important factor in extending trade relations between thousands of manufacturers, merchants and individuals Approximately five million C. O. D shipments are handled by express companies annually.

The "commissions" executed by the express companies are an important function in their business. The express companies will make purchases of any article desired, and while they do not purchase and sell food or other commodities for their own account, they perform a similar service for the benefit of their patrons.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

Peter Radford

On Advertise It In America.

As a citizen of this nation and one intensely interested in its material development, I want to add my approval to the "Buy It In America" movement. Commercial patriotism and business pride are the foundation stones of success in industry and no country can become supreme in commerce and trade without it fosters a spirit of friendship and partiality for its own products and institutions. It is the spirit of the hive that makes the wheels of industry turn and each community should be a progressive unit in our industrial universe. All things being equal the farmer should patronize the local merchant who is always a good citizen, a heavy taxpayer and friend of the farmer. The farmer sends shiploads of raw material to foreign markets and factories that meet on their way vessels laden with finished and foreign grown products coming to America. Any effort to minimize this economic waste ought to be encouraged.

But as a farmer and friend of the manufacturer and merchant I want to suggest an "Advertise It In America" movement. The manufacturer and jobber may blow loud blasts on the horn of patriotism but if they will put an "ad" in the newspapers in their trade territory, making a business presentation of their goods, they will find it far more effective than waving the Star-Spangled Banner. The farmer is as much interested in the price of the things he has to buy as in the price of the things he has for sale and the advertising columns of his newspaper are his price list. The price is the thing and the farmer wants the figures in cold type. The politicians give him all the patriotic buncombe he cares for Business enterprise is a far more successful salesman than business patriotism.

There are many most worthy organizations working to promote commerce and trade but we seldom find organized effort to promote the press, yet it is recognized as the most powerful agency for progress the world has ever produced. We have all sorts of days calculated to promote business and honor industry such as Trades Days, Bargain Days, Labor Day, etc., and why not have a press day and all business concerns advertise the things they have to sell and everybody subscribe for the local paper and all delinquents pay a year in advance. There is nothing so elevating in civilization as the smile of an editor and nothing will contribute more toward the welfare of a community than the prosperity of the press.

The farmer is a friend and patron of the newspapers. He subscribes for the local paper and reads every line in it and it is the best investment he can make. There is no news so valuable as store news; no information so interesting as market demands and no tragedy so entertaining as the rise and fall of prices and no page more closely studied by the farmers than the advertising columns of the press.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

George M. Rommel

On Our Mutton and Wool Supply.

The Federal Department of Agriculture is viewing with considerable alarm the rapid decrease of our live stock, and, through its official publications, sends out warning to the American farmers. In a recent official statement, prepared by Mr. Geo M. Rommel, Chief of the Division of Animal Husbandry, Bureau of Animal Industry, published in the Agricultural Outlook, the following appears:

"The estimates of the department for the number of sheep on farms in the United States on January 1, 1914, show a decided decrease as compared with 1913 The apparent tendency toward a decline in the number of sheep on farms has been noted for some time and has caused sheep raising on farms to be referred to as a waning industry. A word here concerning the economy of sheep and their place in agricultural practice may not be out of place.

As a farm animal per se, the sheep has many distinct advantages The sheep is a much more economical animal to feed than the steer, returning a larger amount of gain per 100 pounds of feed eaten. When his capacity to consume roughage is considered, he is more economical than the hog.

The sheep yields a double return—meat at an economical cost, and wool as a by-product—which will go far toward defraying the cost of keep.

Sheep are prolific. A farm flock which does not yield at least 100 per cent increase is very poor, indeed.

A flock of sheep on a farm will, in time, clear it of weeds, without expense to the owner, if allowed to range the lanes, the stubblefields after grain is cut, and the cornfields after the corn is full grown. As a scavenger even a goat is not more useful than a sheep.

As meat-food animals sheep have never been sufficiently appreciated in the United States. They are, however, of very great value. They must be classed with hogs and poultry, as the most available animals to supply meat for home use on the average farm. They are readily slaughtered, the meat can be kept without difficulty, it cuts up without waste in sizes which are convenient for the average family and the meat is nutritious, wholesome and palatable when properly cooked. The healthfulness of the sheep alone gives it front rank as a meat-food animal. Sheep rarely have tuberculosis or other diseases communicable to man

Farmers have not generally recognized the proper place of the sheep in agriculture in the settled regions. Too much importance is placed on wool. Except on the range, where land is cheap, the wool should be regarded as an incidental—a side line to help defray the cost of handling.

If only 25 per cent of the farms on which there are now no sheep should have a flock of not over twenty-five or thirty ewes, managed with reasonable care, farm revenues would not only be materially increased, but a decided step in advance would be taken towards the solution of our meat supply problem."

REGULAR PROGRAM

THURSDAY—"The Greater Courage," two reel Big U, featuring J. Novack. "Does Flirting Pay?" L KO featuring Gribon and Emery. "The Magic Bon Bon" a comedy, Victor, featuring Violet McMillan.

FRIDAY—Edward Connelly in "Mare Covington" by George Ade. Covington Halliday, a true Southern gentleman, is possessed of one vice—gambling. At the age of 30, Covington goes to war, followed by his faithful boy companion and servant Dan, a black boy of his own age. When he returns home his father and mother are dead and he is the owner of Halliday House. Dan stays with him after his marriage, indignantly refusing to be set free.

About twenty years later Covington with his passion for cards and the race track, is swindled by two adventurers, Bantree and Daly. Gradually falling into their net Covington places a mortgage on Halliday House and instead of using the money for legitimate purposes, he is persuaded to back certain horses and loses.

Unable to pay the mortgage when it is due, Covington and Miss Carol his granddaughter, are turned out of his home, accompanied by Dan. In New York he finds that there is no place for a Virginia gentleman who has no knowledge of business and no stock in trade. Dan is compelled to leave him and finds work in a gambling house. Covington and his granddaughter are reduced to poverty. She obtains a position where she receives eight dollars a week, the source of their support. It is here that she meets Arthur Lewis, a young lawyer for whom she gradually learns to care and bit by bit he becomes acquainted with the sad family story.

The Colonel retaining his pride refuses assistance especially from a Yankee even when Miss Carol loses her position and they are reduced to standing in the bread line.

It so happens that Bantree has selected Lewis as his attorney placing great confidence in him and leaving a number of important papers in his care. Daly comes to New York and sells Bantree the Halliday house. In a quarrel Bantree kills Daly and insists that Lewis defend him and while looking through his papers, Lewis finds proof of the swindling of Covington and as a fee for defending him exacts the return of the Halliday House to Covington..

Restoring the estate to Covington, Lewis asks his reward and Covington decided that all Yankees are not wholly bad and expresse his satisfaction.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

THURSDAY—The Universal presents Hobart Bosworth in "Fatherhood." A drama of Arizona and the human appeal. Lon Gilchrit, a middle-aged and immensely wealthy ranchman, drives into a southwestern settlement and meets a pretty waitress in a lunch room. After several such vusits he proposes to her. She is astounded after their marriage to find that her husband instead of being a poor cowboy as he had thought, is a millionaire. Gilchrist, a bachelor all his days, pays little attention to his wife and she suffers under his neglect. Finally she can stand her isolation no longer and leaves for the settlement. Lon thinks she has left with a handsome young cowboy who he sometimes asked to take her to countryside gatherings. Later he finds he is mistaken. The girl becomes a mother and sends a postal of her baby to Lon who races to the settlement to see his child. There is an affecting reconcilliation and the ranchman, his lesson learned, thereafter makes his wife his pal in all his interests.

FRIDAY—B. A. Rolfe presents Edward Connelly, the estimable character actor in "Marse Covington," George Ade's picturesque romance of the Southland., A great picture. One everybody should see.

A Curious Illusion.

What has come to be called the "Firehole" in the Yellowstone National park is a large hot spring from the bottom of which, to all appearances, a light colored flame is constantly issuing, only to be extinguished in the water before it reaches the surface. At times it has a distinct ruddy tinge, and it always flickers back and forth like the luminent flame of a torch. When seen under favorable conditions the illusion is perfect, and the beholder is sure that he has at last caught a glimpse of the hidden fires which produce the weird phenomena of this region. But it is only illusion. Through a fissure in the rock superheated steam escapes and divides the water just as bubbles do on a small scale. The reflection from the surface thus formed accounts for the appearance, which is intensified by the black background formed by the sides and bottom of the pool.—"The Yellowstone National Park," by Hiram Martin Chittenden, Brigadier General, U. S. A., Retired.

Prolific Fungi.

An average sized mushroom will produce as many as 1,800,000,000 spores and a common toadstool shaggy cap has been shown to produce as many as 5,000,000,000. Fortunately for the other inhabitants of the world, however the probability of successful growth of any given spore is somewhat remote.

The mushroom or toadstool plant is formed by fine dimentous threads which ramify beneath the soil, and if we assume that a successful plant of the mushroom or shaggy caps produces as many as ten mushrooms or toadstools we find that the chance against successful growth to maturity is respectively about 18,001,000,000 and 50,000,000 to one in the two species mentioned. Even more prolific than the mushrooms and toadstools proper is the giant puffball, a large specimen of which has been known to produce as many as 7,000,000,000,000 spores.—London Knowledge.

Two Convincing Reasons.

Lord Peterborough, who lived in the reign of Queen Anne, was very frolicsome, and one day, seeing from his carriage a dancing master with pear colored stockings lightly stepping over the broad stones and picking his way in extremely dirty weather, he alighted and ran after him with drawn sword, in order to drive him into the mud but into which he, of course, followed himself This nobleman was once taken for the Duke of Marlborough and was mobbed in consequence. The duke was then in disgrace with the people and Lord Peterborough was about to be roughly handled. Turning to them he said.

"Gentlemen, I can convince you by two reasons that I am not the Duke of Marlborough. In the first place, I have only 5 guineas in my pocket, and, in the second, they are heartily at your service."

Burned For Thirty Years.

Some illicit whisky distillers once set up their plant in the workings of a disused coal mine on a lonely part of the South Sauchie coal field, in Scotland, but an accident compelled them to change their quarters. They discovered that one of their furnaces had caused a smoldering fire in the abandoned coal seam and, failing in their efforts to extinguish it, the "moonshiners" left the place in a hurry without reporting the occurrence to the authorities. The fire in the old pit continued to smolder until at night the flames issuing from the mouth of the shaft, attracted the attention of the inhabitants around. But it was found that the fire had reached such a point that all attempts to put it out proved futile. It burned itself out in thirty years.—London Mail

Defeated Himself.

When couched in negative form requests bring negative results. A young man said to a father, "I suppose you will refuse if I ask for the hand of your daughter." The father replied, "Yes, I will refuse, but if you had put it the other way, that you were bound to have my daughter if you had to kill me first, you could have had her. As it is, you have defeated yourself at the start, and I do not want a son-in-law of that type of mind. A man who defeats himself on propositions at the start needs to be looked after by some one else most of the time."—Tomorrow's Topics

Modern Methods Absolutely Necessary in the

MAKING OF PHOTOGRAPHS

For art of photography has made such rapid strides that artistic results are only obtained by right up-to-the minute photography. The Schaefer Studio has kept pace with the march of progress, using our own system of light by which we can make sittings under all weather conditions. Schaefer's portraits are that happy combination of art that produces the twentieth century portraits.
